He was given medicinal support and after which remarkable changes are seen in him. Now-a-days he is able to perform all his activities of daily living skills. He helps in farming work and goes to market for selling of products. He has started expanding his business of selling of products. He does the work allotted to him perfectly without any hesitation. Now-a-days, he is not a burden to his family as he has now started earning for his family which is a big achievement for them. He behaves properly with everyone and greets people coming to their house by saying them Namaskar. He now-a-days does not grumble on others without any reason. He does all the marketing required for his family. He also gets gifts for his family members. His family is very happy to see this improvement as they never expected that there will be such changes in his life. Seeing the changes in him they thank the donors who are supporting him regularly for medicines without which he would not have become like other normal human being. It is assumed that he will definitely become like a normal person in near future. He is now leading an independent life for which he is very happy and is very cooperative. He has started building a good relationship with their community members which he never did earlier. They also involve him in their decision making, in the family functions and ceremonies which they never used to do before. As per doctor he should continue the medicines for long otherwise his condition will deteriorate due to which his medicines are continuing regularly.
